 CDC Builders

It is often the case that during tragedy, some silver lining can be found in the opportunity to start anew. For Jose Ortega, this is a truth that altered the path of his life and career. In 1992, after the devastation of Hurricane Andrew, many Miami-ans were making the best of bad times by rethinking their living spaces. With nearly two decades of construction experience, Jose was sure to sit at the center of it all. In hindsight, this proved especially significant—marking the start of his specialty in the high-end residential market. Fast-forward 30 years, and Jose and his team at CDC Builders have become known as a preeminent resource for exquisite, best-quality builds. “We work hand in hand with the client to execute their dream and vision, while keeping within the budget,” Jose shares. It’s an approach that has served them well. CDC Builders boasts a portfolio of prestigious residences throughout Miami-Dade, Monroe, Broward and Palm Beach counties. From luxury custom new builds, to renovations and interior build-outs of condominiums, the ways the firm delivers excellence in construction and craftsmanship are numerous. Asked what he feels is the key to this success, Jose says, “Relationships. Our employees, clients and colleagues alike become family.”

ASK THE EXPERT

What is your firm most known for?

Our belief in trust and communication. These are essential to productivity; we base our transparent, team approach on cooperation, reliability and mutual respect. We collaborate with architects and designers to realize their visions accurately, and open lines of communication—among those in the field and the office—result in the best solutions for every situation. The personal attention we devote to achieving each client’s goals has transformed many business acquaintances into lifelong friends. Our success is built upon these cherished relationships.

What type of project would you love to take on?

We would love to build a net-zero home to the standards of LEED’s Zero certification—the highest distinction for a residential custom home.
